And so the 1969-70 school year began. However along with the beginning, came a great day of change — October 6. From that blazing night up to the senior's final walk as high school students, FHS underwent an extreme period of readjustment, improvement, and restoration. For the first time in the history of Fairmont, administrators and faculty were faced with a year, unprecedented by any other, to which extra hours of thought, reasoning, and planning were necessarily devoted.

From the student viewpoint, however, the thrill of the split shift schedule soon wore off, leaving behind an apparent feeling of apathetic unconcern floating through the halls of FHS. School spirit and team support seemed to be antiques of the past which were neatly stored on locker shelves for the year's duration.

And then there appeared, "in just the nick of time," a cause and purpose which united students and restored their spirit and faith. To this cause, students devoted "letters to the editor," youthful opinions on Vocal Point, and hours of preparing for a very significant march through the streets of downtown Fairmont. All their sincere efforts were duly rewarded with the passing of the bond issue for a future senior high school.

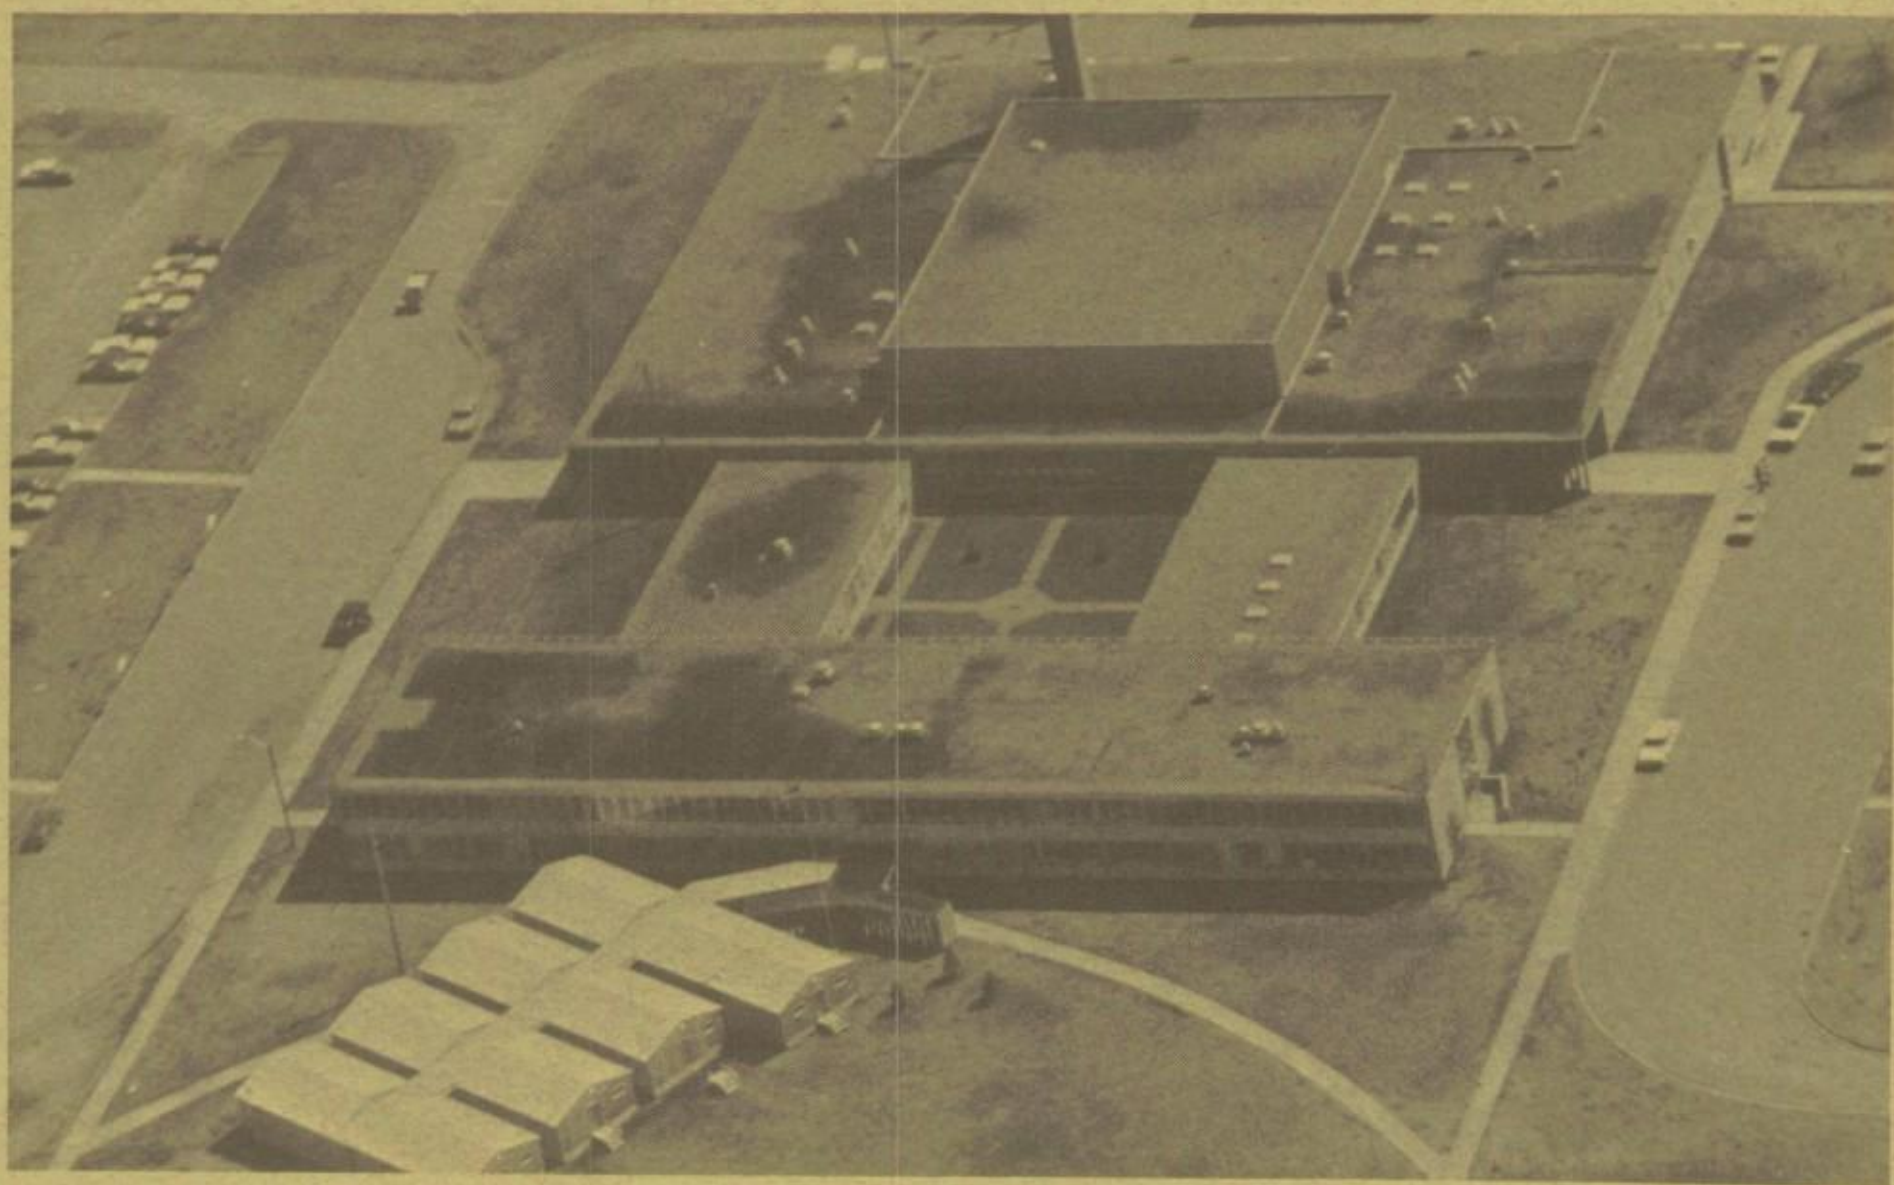

The entire student body, this past year, experienced most of the "routine" events associated with and enjoyed in high school life. But this particular sophomore, junior, and senior class viewed much more than any future classes will ever dream of seeing. The reason for this lies in change — which, in turn, brings a beginning and renewal for the future, and an end to the old, precious days in FHS.

With this beginning, the Cardinal staff brings to you, the year of change.

30 Years of Dedication

For 30 years, one man has dedicated his life to us, the students of F.H.S. Our problems became his as he strived to find a solution for each of the thousands we unloaded on him. Whenever we needed him, for whatever, he was there. To you, Mr. Budde, we dedicate the 1970 Cardinal. The efforts we students put forth may never equal your efforts for us; but hopefully, this dedication will serve to remind all of us whom you guided through high school, exactly how much we owe you.

THE SPECTACULAR

Queen Carla

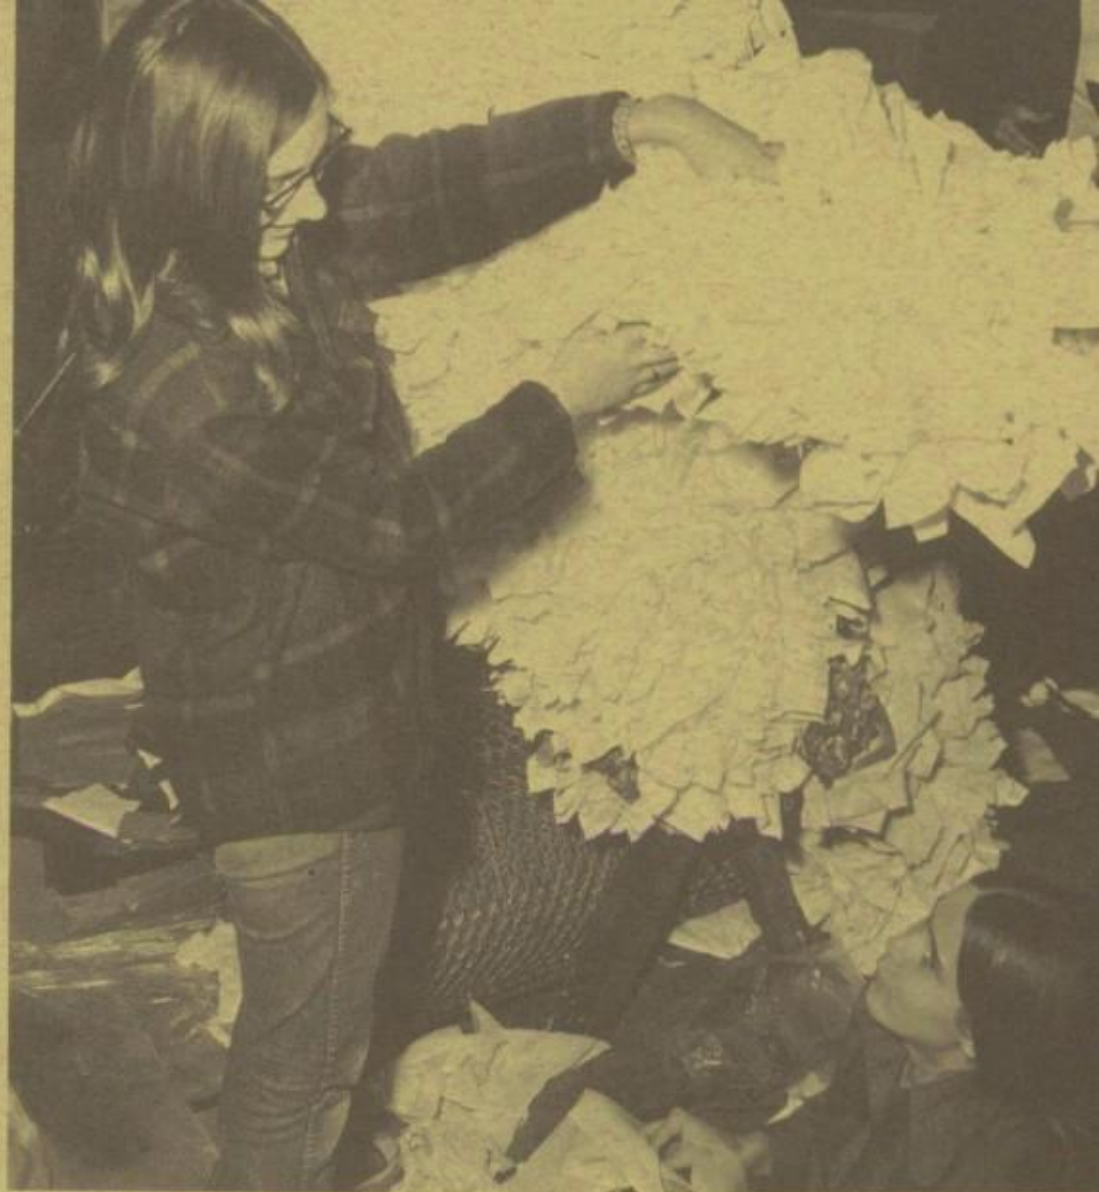

Queen Carla kicks in school spirit

The Cardinal football team definitely "il-eagleized" the New Ulm eagles as the Cards trounced over the birds 44-12, to make the Homecoming win the 26th on the 26th of September. Queen Carla Hanson reigned over all the activities as the Sweetheart of F.H.S. with her "blue eyes and golden hair."

RIGHT: History repeated itself as M.O.E.A. again captured first place with its creative float of "Boot the Eagles." Shown fluffing the eagle are Jan Kielblock and Kathy Schwieger.

LOWER RIGHT: At the Homecoming dance, Queen Carla proudly accepted the team autographed football which was presented to her by the football tri-captains.

Shakespeare's spell captures audience

This year's all-school play, "A Midsummer Night's Dreame", Fairmont's first attempt at a Shakespearean comedy, was presented November 7, 8, and 11 at the National Guard Armory. The charm and color of every fairy and elf succeeded in providing a most enchanting evening for everyone involved.

FAR RIGHT: Flute (Bev Gerhardt) and Quince (Steve Hagedorn) dubiously welcome Bottom (Chris Nolte) back in the world of reality after his harrowing experience as a donkey.

MIDDLE: Puck, (Jane Lindekugel) the impish instigator of mischief, grins at the result of her devilish pranks.

RIGHT: Snug the Joiner (Steve Torgerson) fruitlessly voices his moronic opinion of the situation at hand.

CAST MEMBERS: L. Hyde, J. Lindekugel, R. Lintelman, A. Hale, S. Wessel, C. Carlson, W. Brodt, P. Mahar, M. Legg, C. Gorder, G. Gratz, M. Wittmer, S. Torgerson, C. Nolte, B. Gerhardt, S. Todd, G. Kuderer. SEATED: N. Neal, B. Frisbie, J.

Saxton, S. Hagedorn.
 LEFT: Mary Lou Wittmer, doubling as Stage Manager and Hippolyta, helps Mr. Perron set the scene.

One-act blends reality with fantasy

Directed by Dennis Kral, blindfolded actors groped around a stark and unusually striking stage setting in Murray Shisgal's "tragical comedy" "The Basement", which captured alternate to state competition, and gained Jane Lindekugel the title of regional best actress.

RIGHT: Mr. Kral and Gary Peterson cautiously contemplate using a live mouse for Max's laboratory experiments. However, the mouse's distracting scampering about the table and chomping on Gary Gratz's fingers prompted the use of a rubber "understudy" mouse.

BELOW: "You just don't understand" realizes scientist Max (Gary Gratz) as he vainly tries to convince his wife Mina (Jane Lindekugel) and himself his word, whatever it is, is all that matters to him.

BELOW RIGHT: Childless Mina, barred from entering the sanctum of Max's laboratory, (indicated by the restrictive blindfold) attempts along with Max's brother Harry (Steve Hagedorn) to bring Max back to the real world of people who need children and each other.

Theater of the absurd invades student one-acts

The four student-directed one-acts, testing grounds for green directors and actors, blossomed with ingenuity this year, presenting views into the worlds of absurdism and romantic fantasy. Settings varied from a barren jail cell in "Hello Out There" to an elaborate eighteenth century French home in "The Maker of Dreams." Grossly out-of-proportioned cubic furniture lent a surrealistic timelessness to "The Bald Soprano" and imaginary elephants paraded in "A Resounding Tinkle," which employed the floor area in front of the stage, bringing the action close to the audience. The usual judging was replaced by a critique panel of Speech II students and faculty members, who presented their observations to the directors, Speech II class, and the casts for analysis and future application.

Winter funland erupts in F.H.S.

Fairmont's first annual Snow Festival was held February 5, 6, & 7 with a numerous variety of events and activities scheduled. The fun included volleyball and football games, tricycle and cross-country races, and the intellectual challenge of Bucks Euchre. On Saturday night, the festival culminated with its customary Sno-ball Dance, which, this year featured "The System."

BELOW: Chairman Steve Hagedorn keeps an eye on two teams as they battle for a chance at the Bucke Euchre championship.

Carnival mood colors "carousel"

In a perfectly set atmosphere on May 16th, the Junior Class produced this year's prom entitled "Carousel". The center of attraction was a sparkling merry-go-round which enhanced the evening's mood. Beginning the prom, ninety glittering couples paraded before an admiring audience during the Grand March. They then danced to the music provided by a modern rock group, "Thunder Tree". When twelve o'clock tolled the night was really just beginning for the promgoers.

FAR LEFT: Every attending prom couple found that the evening's music was comfortable and enjoyable to dance to, as this cross-section view implies.

ABOVE: Regina Drumond experiences a taste of decorating as she offers her assistance during a pre-prom work day.

Variety show is spice of life

BELOW: Wit and sparkle were professionally added to this year's Variety Show on April 25, by emcees Webb Brodt and Jane Lindekugel.

BELOW RIGHT: Steve Torgerson and Pam Mahar break the mood between routines as they ironically portray a well known "Vote" commercial.

RIGHT: Not only did Juniors Connie Bacon and Ann Omvig look the part of undertaker and bird-watcher, but they also artistically acted their roles.

The grand finale, presenting all of the Variety Show acts, was a goulash of swingers who danced to the song "Mercy, Mercy, Mercy" provided by Fairmont's Stage Band.

THE COMPETITIVE

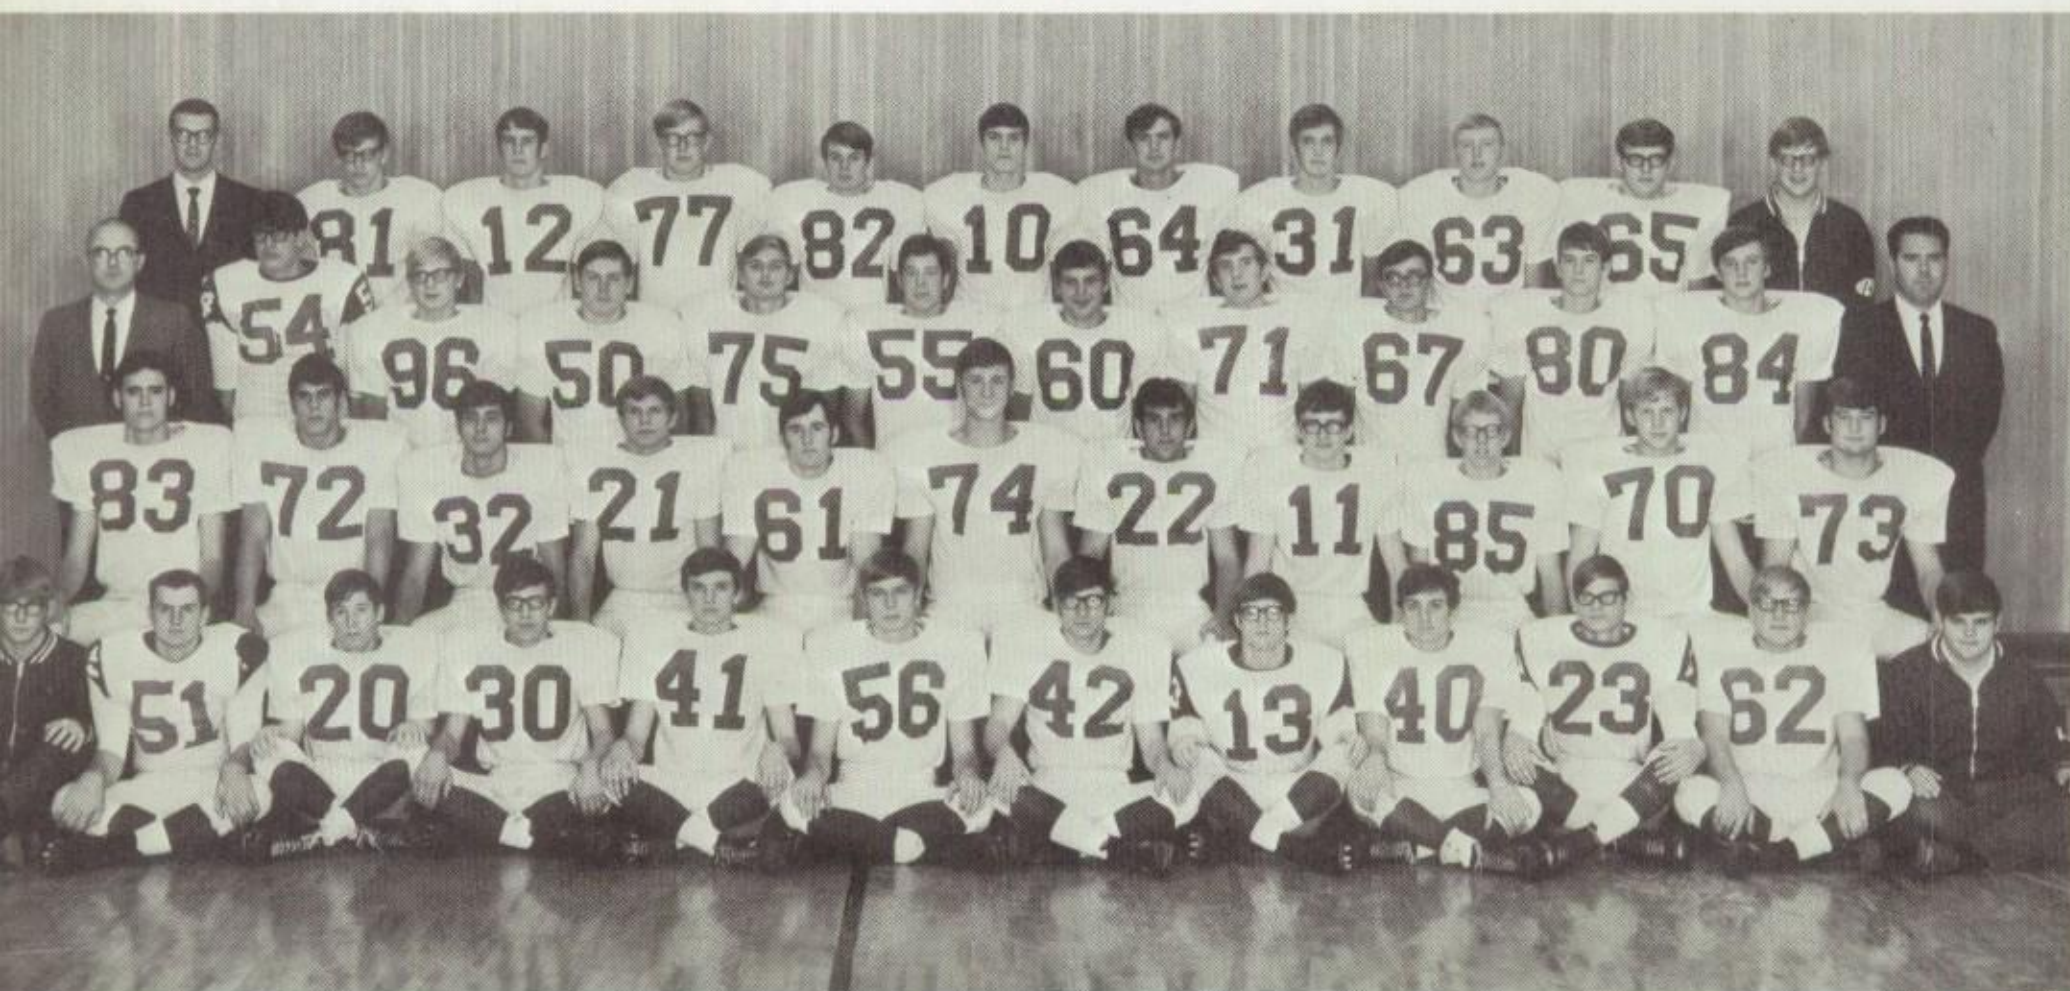

Cards stretch winning streak to 31

The gridders lived up to their motto, "Shine in '69," compiling their third consecutive undefeated and untied season. This increased their victory string to 31 games, the longest winning streak in Minnesota at the present time. The Cards captured the South Central Conference title, were ranked in the top five teams in the state and placed 5 seniors on the All-Conference Team.

Cards make valiant effort

The 1970 basketball team operated under a drastically changed system from previous years. Mr. Sherwood Sagedahl took over the head coaching position in place of Mr. Raymond. The team was forced to practice in the armory because of the junior high fire and practiced at more varied times than any other team in the state.

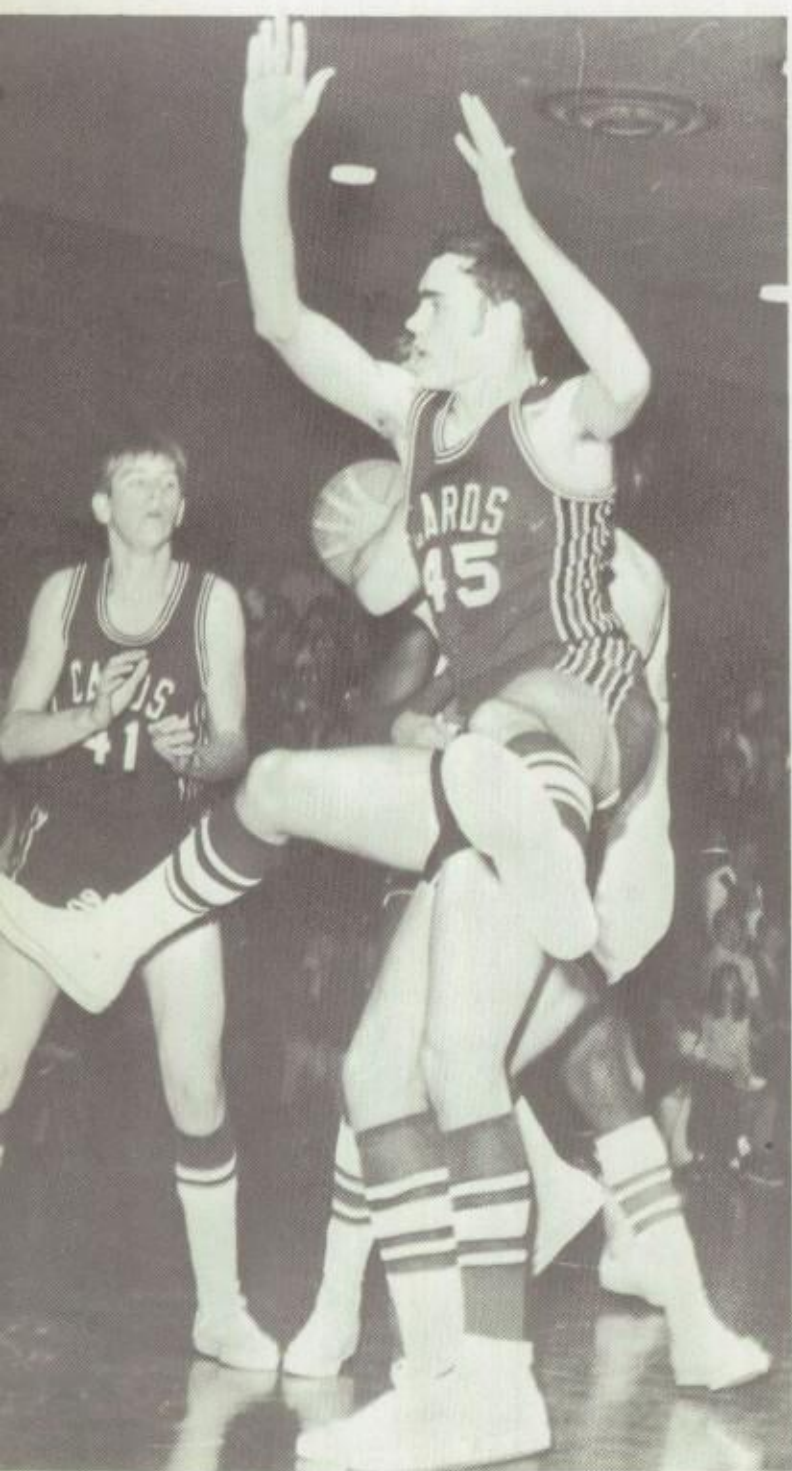

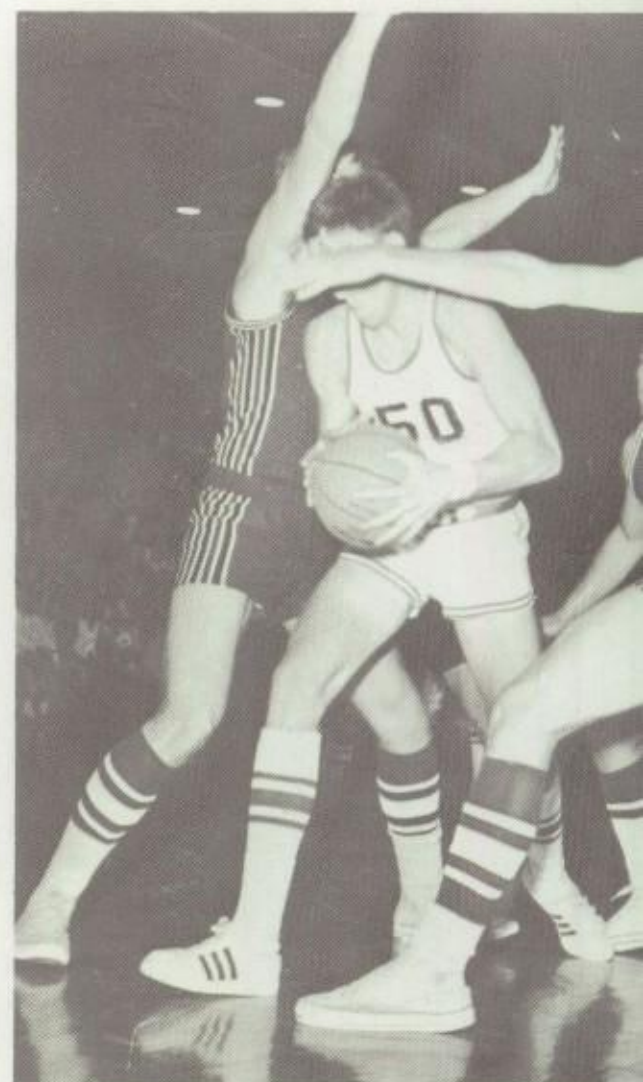

The hoopsters had a 10-8 season record and finished in a third place tie in the South Central Conference. The Cards lost their first district game to Sherburn, who later went on to win the state championship.

FAR RIGHT: Steve Hagedorn follows the ball as he drives between two defenders for a lay-up.

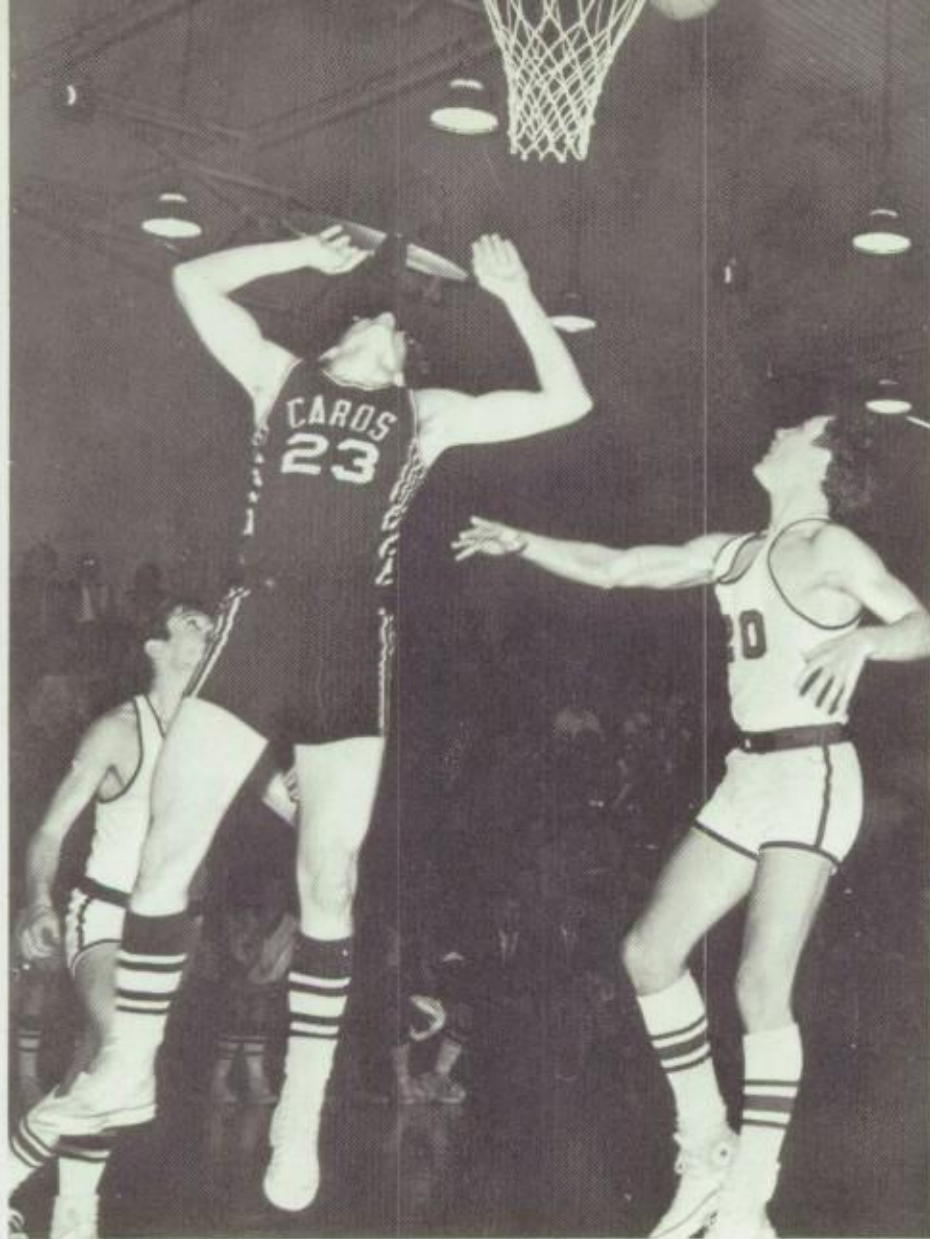

RIGHT: Three Cards harass an opponent with outstretched arms in an attempt to steal the ball.

BELOW: Doug Richards' legs are lost in a tangle of players trying for the basketball.

Record 16 take 10th in State

In a rebuilding season, the top-ten ranked Cardinal gymnastics team compiled a 9-1 record. Their single loss was to Cooper, the eventual state champion.

The team, co-captained by Rod Haeckel and Steve Thompson, worked under a new scoring system, practice schedule, and assistant coach, Harlan Gorath.

The Cards won their 16th consecutive region II meet, and advanced 16 boys to the state meet, improving over last year with a 10th place finish.

Being No. 1 in the area seems to be what the Girls' Gym Team does best. They captured this position in both novice and intermediate-advanced divisions. Top scorers were Barb Gould and Marcia Wulf in the novice division and Janell Jaqua and Gloria Fraser in the intermediate-advanced division. This year the most rewarding accomplishment was the defeat of Rochester Mayo by the score of 227 to 69.

Tracksters rated “best in years”

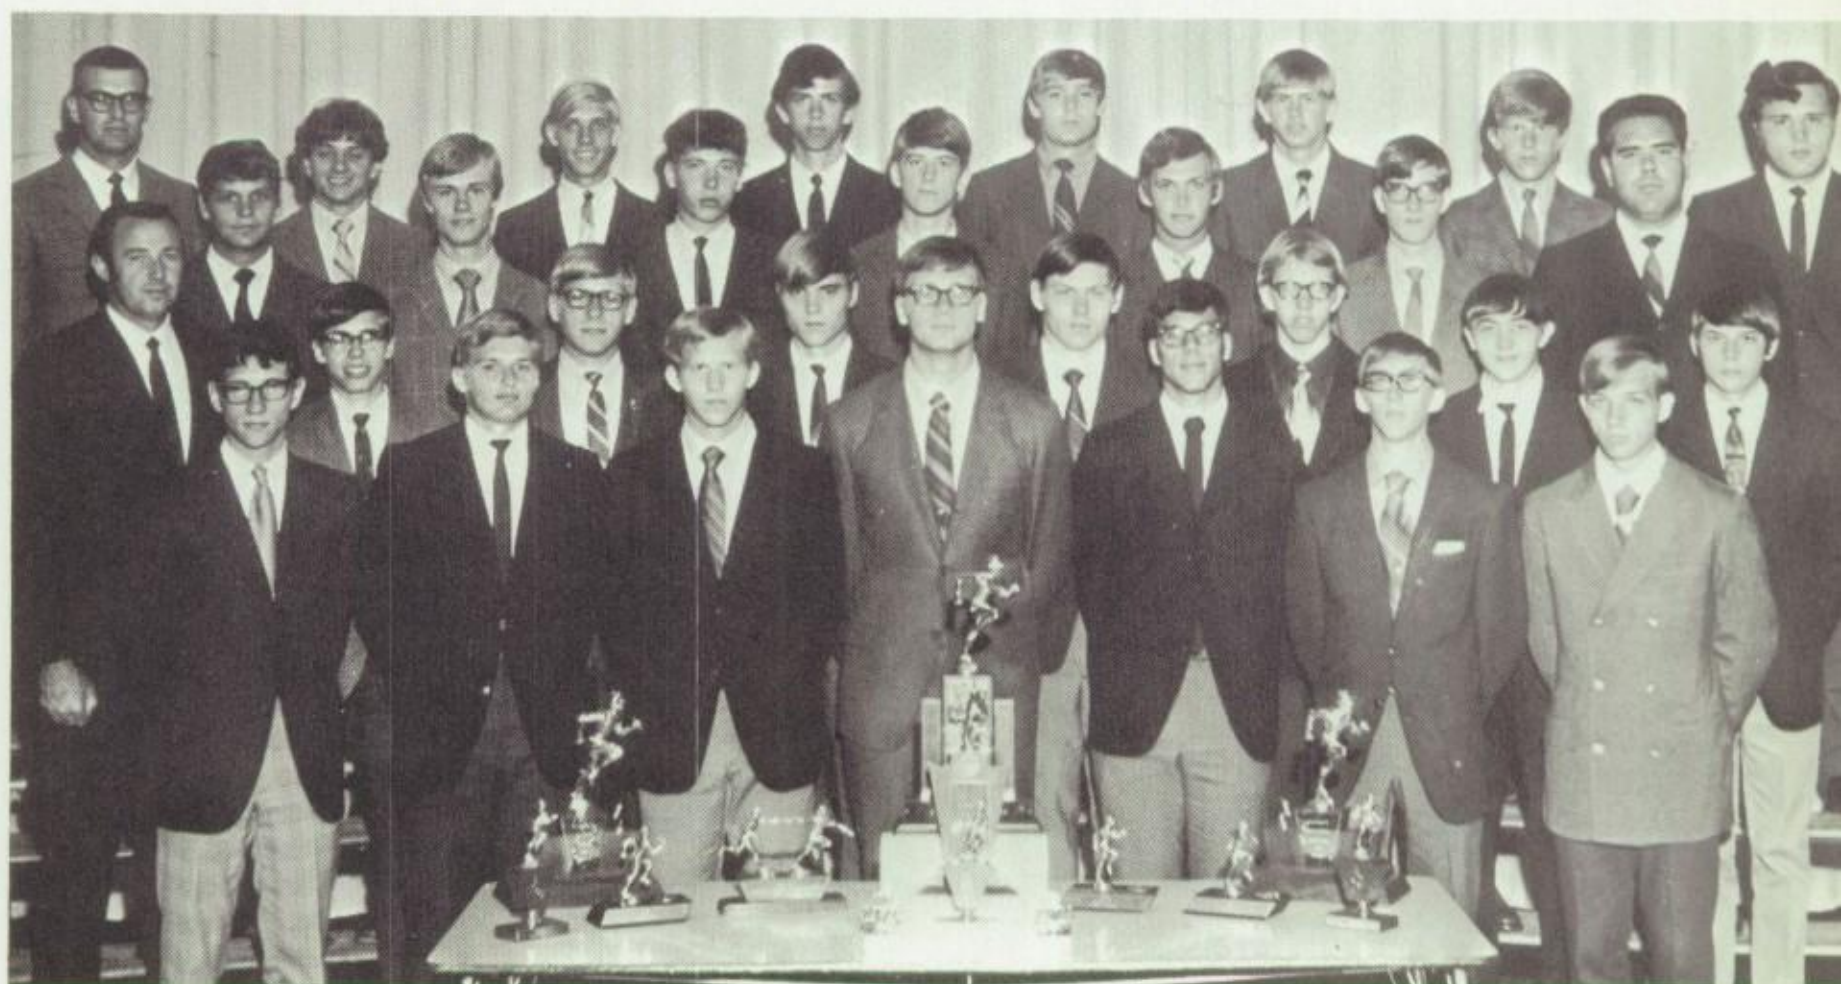

The track team, captained by seniors Doug Olson, Gary Deguise, and Dave Nash developed strong team depth and midway in the season became one of Fairmont's premier track squads.

Fairmont won the South Central Conference meet and the District 5 crown, where the Cardinals more than doubled the score of runner-up Wells, and finished third in regional competition.

THE COMMUNAL

Employers appreciate girls' services

Fairmont's MOEA chapter had a busy year in 1969-70, not only because of the steady jobs which these girls held, but also because they represented our city at various state and national conferences. The entire MOEA organization attended the state leadership conference which resulted in four Fairmont girls winning high honors at this conference. Also, two MOEA members and advisor Mr. Huggett journeyed to Texas where the national leadership conference was held.

The year was brought to a successful close when the MOEA employers sponsored an employer appreciation banquet which was a big thank-you for all the assistance these girls had given during the year.

Local chapter claims new state president

FHS's local chapter of the Distributive Education Clubs of America bustled with activity this year as the DECA store held its grand opening, and the sophomore magazine drive came under the management of the club. The highlight of the year came as four DECA students, Rob McGrath, Becky Tucker, Lynne Anderson, and Keith Hans gained state honors in DECA related activities and Dave Halvorsen took over as the new state president of DECA.

RIGHT: Chuck Haugen makes a regular check on the income from DECA's booming sales.

Fun & learning science club

This year's science club exerted its main efforts in the direction of cleaning up man's environment. The club showed its concern by becoming involved in Fairmont's "Environment Day" on April 20th. They not only actively participated in discussion groups throughout the day, but they also collected litter and trash from the Fairmont area prior to April 20th, and displayed the rubbish in the school to make a lasting impression on the high school students.

“Gift of gab” brings rewards for orators

Whether outwitting an opponent or expressively interpreting, eager workers had the opportunity to display their verbal talent in debate and declamation. Both groups included freshmen this year, giving greater opportunity to build proficiency through more experience.

The debate team coached by Mr. Tollefson, with their topic “Resolved: Congress should prohibit United States military intervention in foreign countries.”, traveled to Worthington, tying for fourth place. They participated at the Winona Tri-State Invitational Speech Festival, and finished the season successfully after twelve tournaments.

Declam enthusiasts were given an extra opportunity to compete this year in a Speech Festival at Winona in January, giving them a preview of their performance quality and opportunity to brush up before the local, district, regional, and state contests.

Girls shape FHS life

The all-girl clubs, Ski-Hi, FTA and FHA, represented a cross-section of girls from FHS. In their own way, they served the community and the school by making life a little more pleasant. For instance, Ski-Hi artistically assembled Christmas banners which brightened resthomes for the holiday. FTA members provided much service by aiding teachers with heavy work schedules, while FHA frequently provided hard-working students with goodies from their bake sales. It can, therefore, truthfully be said that the girls kept FHS in shape this year.

Language clubs explore cultures

Once again this year, interested foreign language students combined forces and formed FHS's Modern language Club. Its primary effort in the 1969-70 school year was the sponsoring of the Goliard Concert, a male folk trio well known in the college circuit. The concert proceeds were used to send deserving language students to either a French or German summer camp.

SFC promotes communication

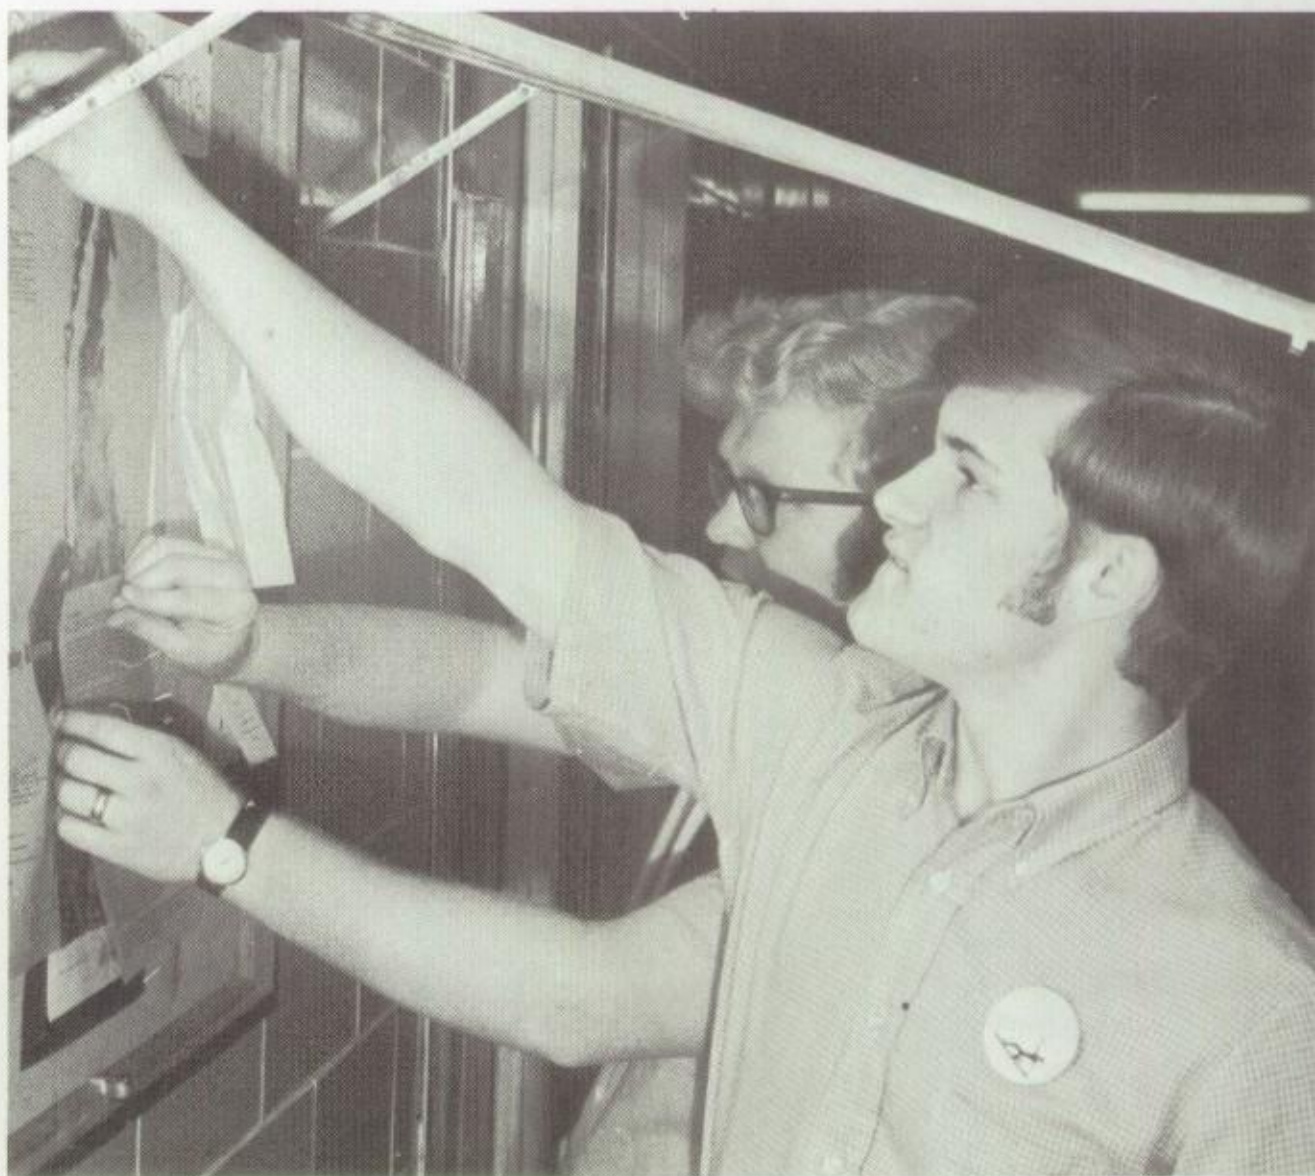

In the fall of 1969, the student council suggested that a committee be set up, excluding student council members, which would attempt to represent the student body in a more direct manner than the council possibly could. The result was the student-faculty committee, consisting of one boy and girl from each grade and five faculty members.

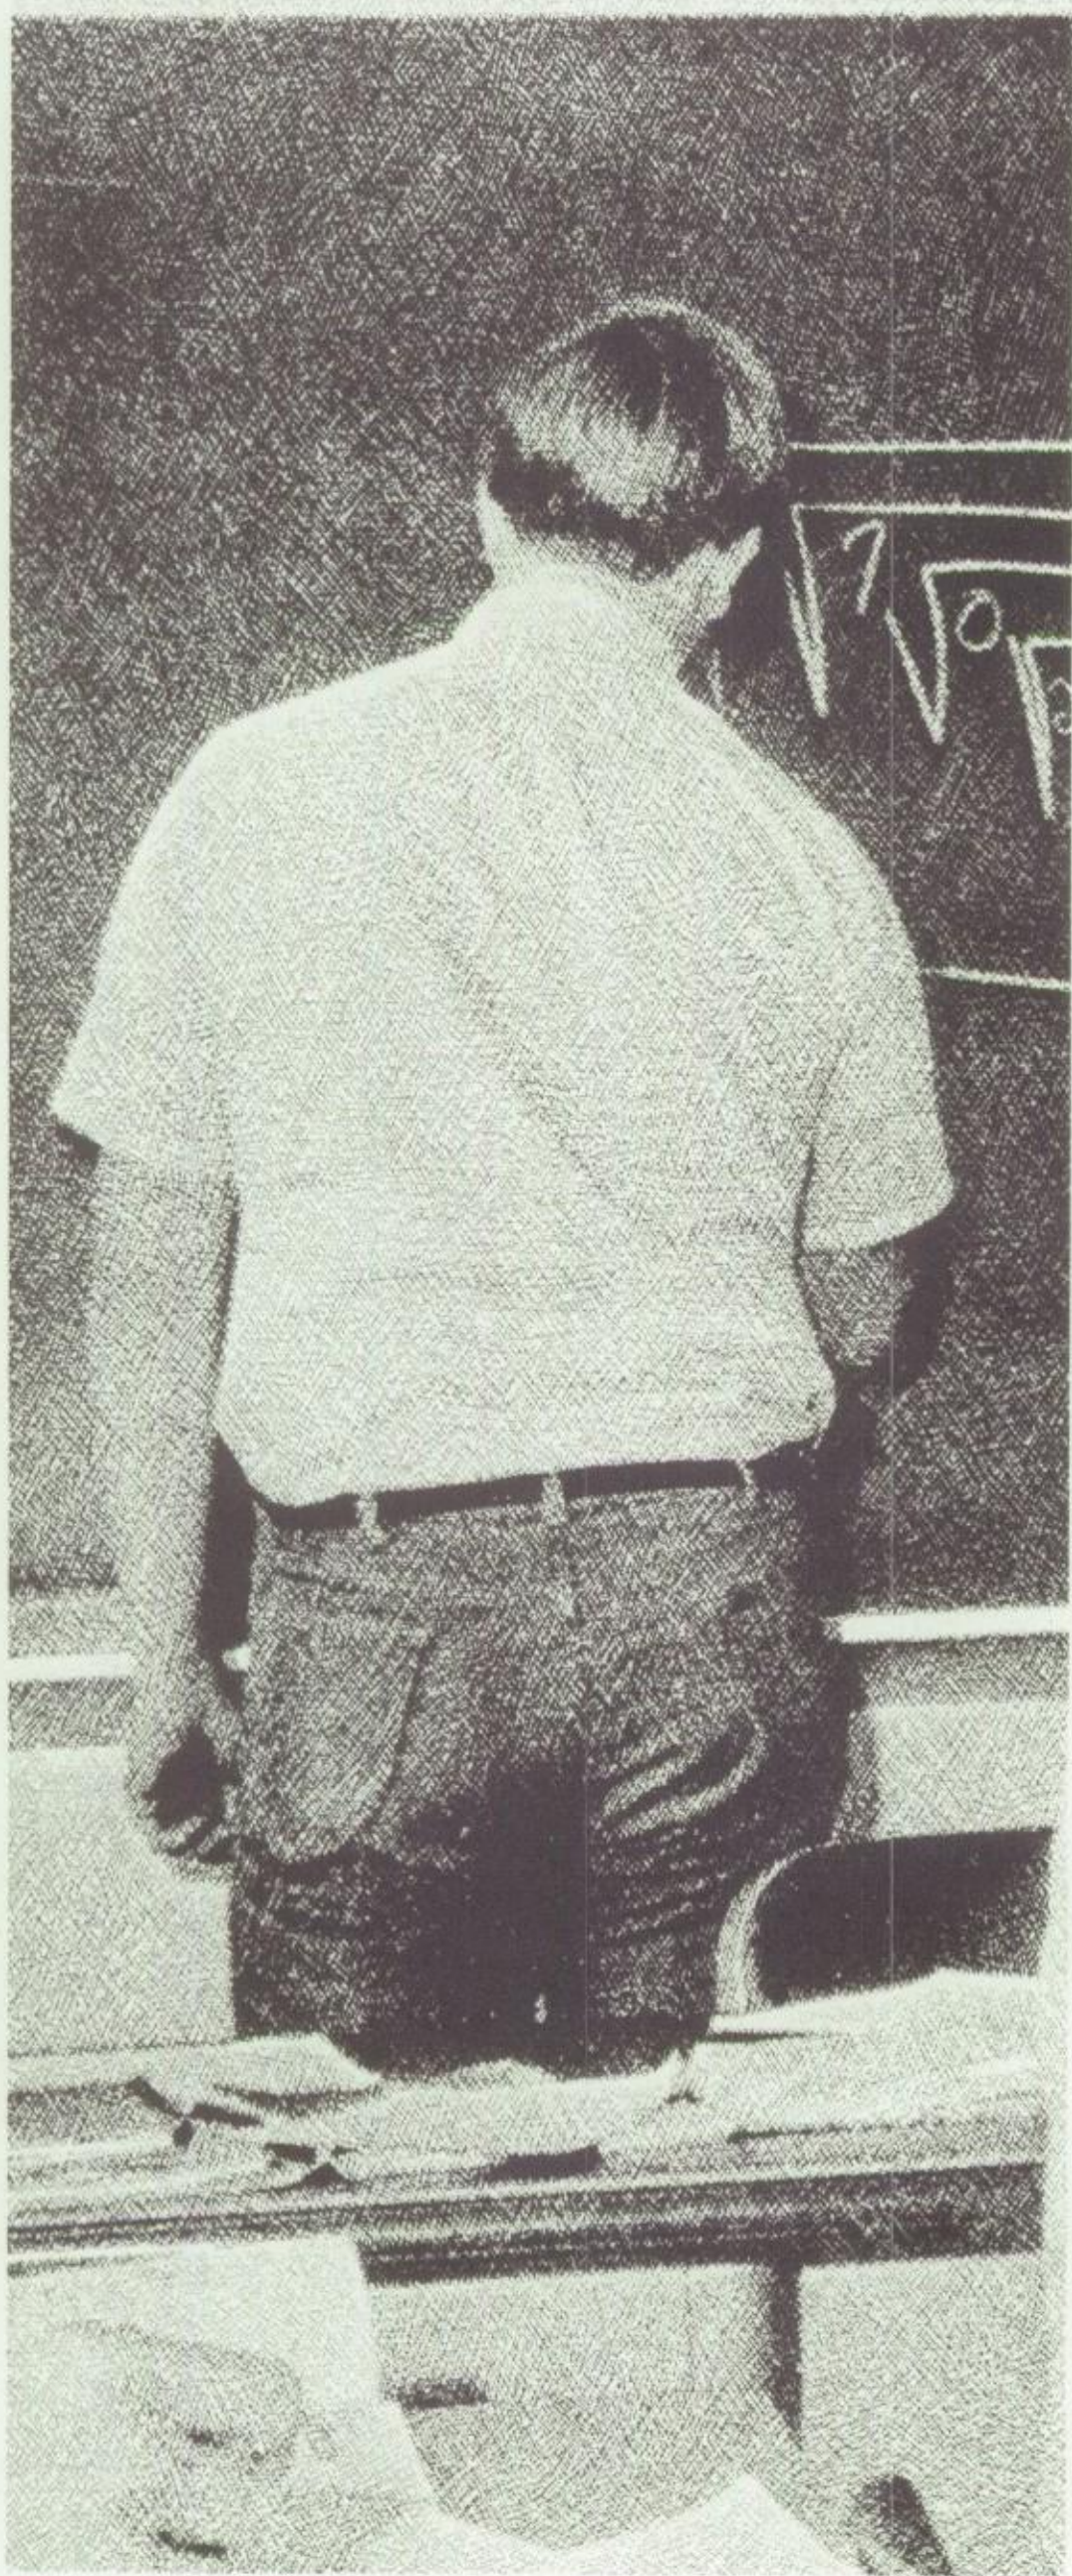

Their primary efforts revolved around the question of the transportation of clubs a discussion of children's behavior at games, compulsory lyceums, and the establishment of a second pop machine.

THE ACADEMIC

Major decisions face educators

A day in the life of C.H. Hegdal, Principal of F.H.S., can properly be called hectic, fast-moving, and rewarding. A day often includes scheduling, conferences with teachers, class visitations, and public relations.

Assistant Principal, T. E. Moriarty, is director of student activities and athletics. He is also concerned with problems of attendance and student discipline.

This past year has added new problems for the school administrators because of the Jr. High fire last fall. A split shift was set up to accommodate Jr. High and Sr. High classes and activities.

They have also been working on computer scheduling. Numerous semester courses which have "been in the making" since the summer of 1969 will be ready this fall.

Now the school administrators will spend many extra hours planning Fairmont's four year high school.

Earth dwellers show concern

In accord with National Environment Day, FHS set aside April 20th as its Earth Day. The entire day was reserved to educate the school's students as to the problems of pollution on the local, state, and national level. Students were allowed to attend three discussions by different experts besides the general mass lectures.

Preparing for future trades

Industrial Arts, under the supervision of four qualified instructors, enabled the boys of FHS to display their real abilities in various crafts of workmanship. Under this course of study, one learned the processes of synthetics (plastics), and also the arts of mechanical drawing, welding, molding, and woodworking.

Mr. Larry Krier — Consumer Economics and Business Law, Sales and Merchandising, D.E. Coordinator.

Mrs. Doris Nash — Office Practice, Steno Office Procedures, Stenography I, II.

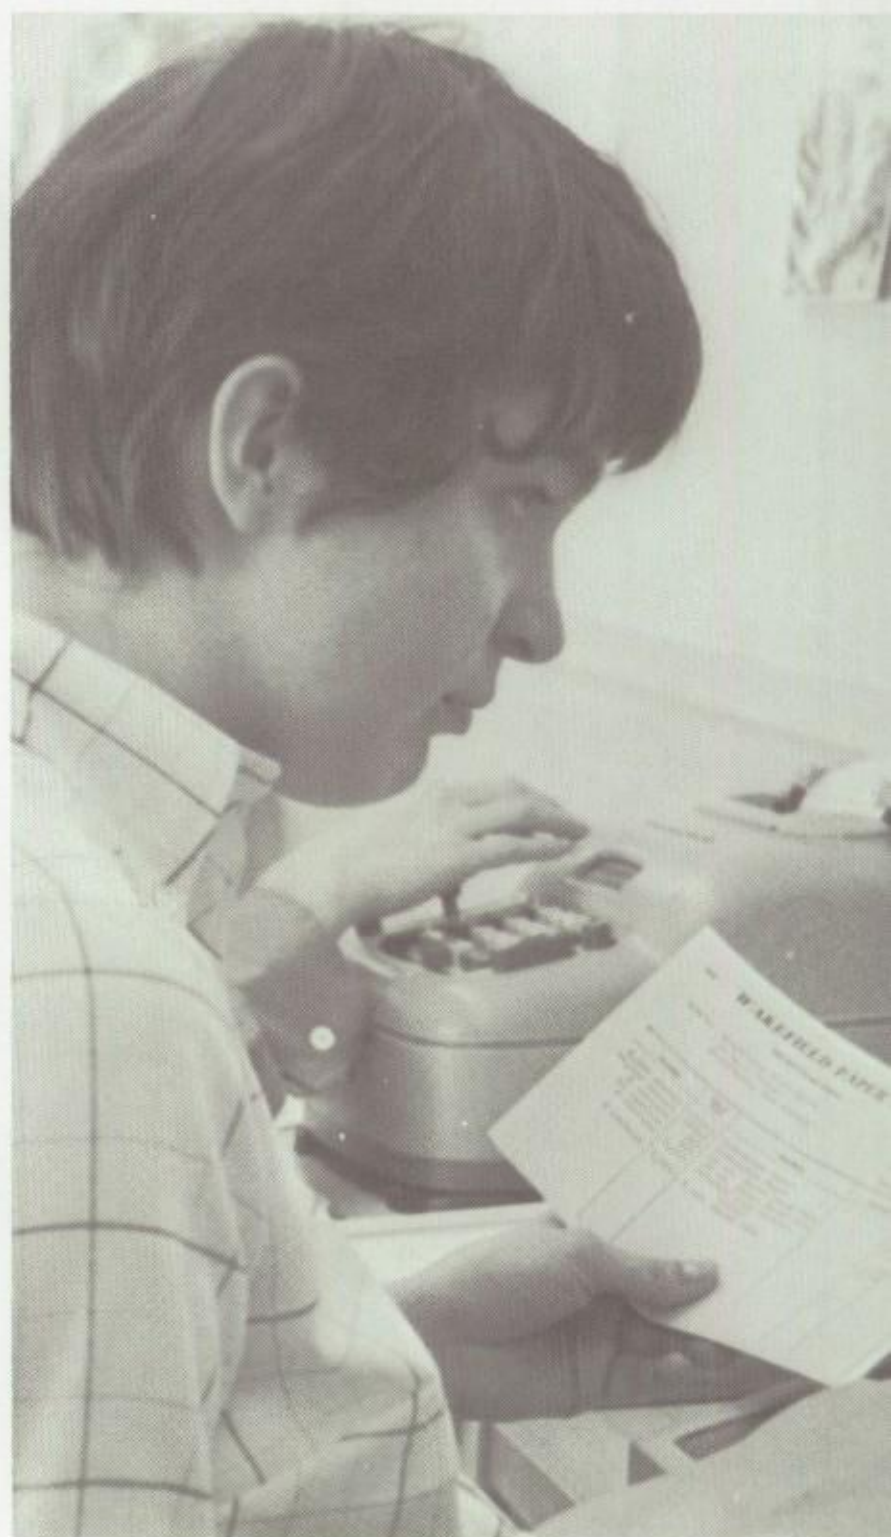

Mr. Gerald Nielson — Bookkeeping, Vocational Director.

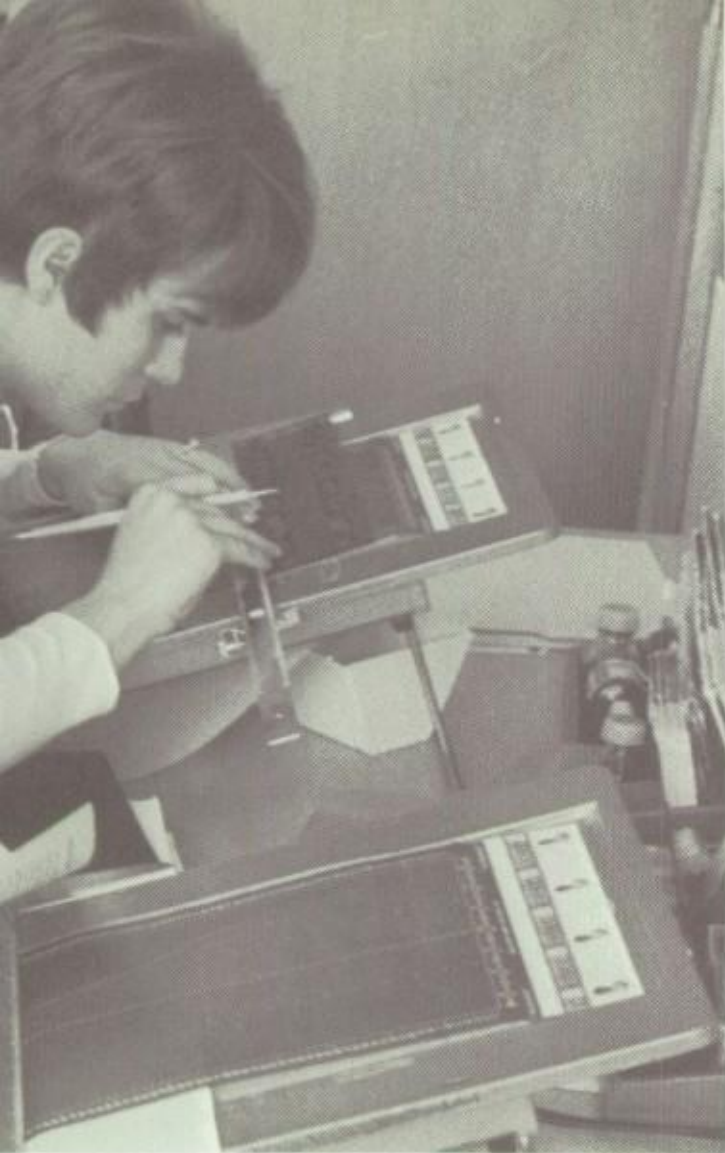

In preparation for careers of the future, FHS offered several courses for its business minded students. Students were able to gain experience in typing, bookkeeping, consumer economics, sales and merchandising, steno office procedures and several other fields. To assure production of capable, thoroughly skilled future employees, the business staff stressed the importance of practice, speed, and accuracy.

Boys infiltrate women's territory

The home ec program introduced new and varied courses to its system this year. Food and clothing units were expanded so that students could enroll in beginner or advanced categories. A marriage and family life course, which gave girls a good idea of married life, was widely and enthusiastically accepted. Two other successful courses, food and clothing units for boys, proved to be interesting and exciting for all involved.

RIGHT: Children's playday in home ec class proved to be just as fascinating and enjoyable for the older generation, represented by Patty Nolte, as for the youngsters.

BELOW: Mixing and messing were ingredients found in the home ec kitchen as chefs Kevin Carrigan and Bruce Saxton prepared an uncertain mixture.

Physical contests grow keen

The huffing and puffing of phy ed classes this year was supplemented by the addition of Girls' Track, an opportunity for interested girls to compete out of town as well as locally against other all-girl teams. Though still a little wobbly on its new legs, the Girls' Track team showed great enthusiasm and zeal.

Our apologies to the phy ed department, not pictorially represented this year due to unnecessary and unforgivable neglect on the part of the photo club.

Language: a universal key

It was possible once again this year for interested students to begin or further their education of French, German, and Latin, through the use of tape recorded dialogues and drills. Also offered for the first time was a contract course in which a student with three years of previous education in a language could continue to learn at his own rate.

Music creates appreciation

Light, cheerful, enjoyable, and talented can well describe as a whole, the orchestra program this year. Festival trip rewards efforts

Among the annual concerts and lyseums traditionally given by the Fairmont concert choir, this year's choral organization was honored with an invitation to sing in the Concordia Choir Festival at Moorhead under the direction of Dr. Paul J. Christianson. This was the first choir trip taken by any choral group in Fairmont.

RIGHT: Gary Gratz and Barb Abram attempt to pass time and nervousness watching TV as they await the concert choir's turn to present their Christmas Concert on KEYC-TV in Mankato.

FAR RIGHT: Dave Bishop offers his services on the concert choir's trip to Moorhead.

Perfection and unity

Last spring, abundant interest and try-out participation in the choral music program, necessitated the organization of a second high school choir. As a result, Fairmont's Cardinal Choir was born and made it possible for some seventy sophomores, juniors, and seniors to show their vocal talent for the first time this year.

RIGHT: Bright lights and hot moments were all a part of the excitement and experience shared by the members of Fairmont's Cardinal Choir as they performed their Christmas concert on KEYC-TV at Mankato.

THE STUDENTS

Leaders for '72 prepare now

The sophomore class, this year, made a successful, all-out effort to become a true part of F.H.S. They showed genuine enthusiasm in all phases of high school life and proved their dependability and capability. Not only did sophomore names and faces appear in every sport, musical and academic category, but they also were very much a part of clubs and organizations.

RIGHT: Sophomore and junior Modern Language Club members combine their talents in advancing publicity for the Goliard's Concert. BELOW: Eagerness and enthusiasm played an important part as the sophomores delved into Homecoming activities and created a third place float in one night.

Graduation forces students into big world

The senior class of 1970 made their final march together on Wednesday June 3, as they approached the commencement exercises held once again in Fairmont's athletic field. However when they arrived, they were disappointed by the news that speaker Walter F. Mondale would not be present to address the class. Regardless of the record setting commencement time, the class of 1970 graduated with great satisfaction.

In memoriam: he thrived in the 'realms of gold'

This 1969 — 1970 school was unique in that its smooth operation was plagued by tragedies and disasters. One recognized disaster lay in the tragic junior high fire — slowly and painfully being corrected and replaced by the newer and better. But there is one tragedy which Fairmont experienced which will never be corrected or bettered. For, in the spring of this year, Marvin Endersbe, long-time high school librarian and former history teacher, passed from this world. Nearly every student realized that Mr. Endersbe's formal, business-like attitude during library hours was just a cover-up necessary for successfully carrying out his job. However, a student could talk to this person in his office at any time and partake in either an intellectual or "down to earth" conversation. Book reading will never be quite the same at FHS now that this friend has left us.

A black and white photograph of a prison corridor. In the foreground, a white metal grate with a repeating diamond pattern is visible, partially obscuring the view. The corridor extends into the distance, with a series of lights on the ceiling and doors along the walls. The lighting is dim, creating a somber and institutional atmosphere.

Time it was,
And what a time it was,
It was . . .
A time of innocence,
A time of confidences.
Long ago . . . it must be . . .
I have a photograph.
Preserve your memories.
They're all that's left you.
